BASKETBALL

Basketball this year has meant a great deal to the students of Notre Dame. It has been the avenue through which the students have shown their belief and feeling for each other and their school.

Perhaps the intensity of school spirit at Notre Dame can be explained by the remarkable improvement that the players have made over the past year. It has been their dedication to basketball that has resulted in this successful season, and for their hard work we offer our affection and congratulations.

Many seniors will be lost by way of graduation, and they will be difficult to replace. But the coaches and players are confident that next year will be a year of even greater success and spirit at Notre Dame.

Perhaps the quote from Coach Collins best describes the season: "It has been a year where players and students have seen basketball for them emerge from just a game to a meaningful experience. Together sharing the joy of victory, and the gloom of defeat, and yet together exhibiting the will to recover and win."
